SUPPLY AND DEMAND

It's a long time since we first heard that "if we interfere with the law of supply and demand we're in for trouble." This is the old saw which was and still is used by those who try to defend the various "open-market" and "non-interference" policies with relation to the prices of farm products, more particularly wheat.

We would humbly suggest that one of the big features in our progress from the primal practice of hand-to-mouth feeding and clothing has been a growing interference with just this same natural law. Just how early the records go we cannot say but without doubt one of the classical examples of successful sidetracking of this "law" was brought about by the wisdom and superb management of one Joseph of the coat of many colors. Without his interference a great number of Egyptians and the nucleus of the Hebrew race would have perished from hunger.

Since that time it has been found growingly important to make humanity safe against the vagaries of production, of seasonal shortages, and the distribution and exchange of goods between areas of plenty of convenient production and areas of plenty and shortage. In the rough days it was common for the possessor of sorely wanted goods to capitalize on his position and raise his prices accordingly, without regard to his own cost. This feature, too, is frowned upon by our modern society, which has a nasty word for such opportunists... but none-the-less the abided strictly by the law of "supply and demand."

To maintain that the law of "supply and demand" should not be dispensed with in regard to our grain sales is to suggest that it did at one time apply. With this suggestion we would take issue. No flight of imagination can bring us to the conclusion that this law could make wheat which was worth $1.00 one day result, in its price being $1.05 the next day and a few days later return to $1.00 or even 95 cents, but such were the conditions when "the law" was in operation. When viewed on a longer-term basis the fluctuations were really fantastic, and disastrous. Many of us recall the "hungry thirties" when the price of wheat dropped in less than two years from about 90 cents to less than 25 cents a bushel, if such vagaries can conceivably be attributed to "the law" then it obviously should be rescinded, or in some way overruled.

The farmers, too, while they are the only group that are expected to tolerate wide price fluctuations because of "the law", are also in the poorest position to tailor their production to fit the market. In the first place the farmer has no idea in the spring, when he sows his crop, what the harvest will bring. In the second place he has no idea of what influence the crops harvested in other parts of the world will have on the supply situation. Thirdly the farmer cannot jump from one line of production to another overnight... it takes years for him to change his farming plan and to establish himself, for instance, in pigs or dairy or beef cattle.

Farming, one of the mainstays of our economy, needs greater security than is provided by the out-dated short term law of supply and demand, and the vagaries of a manipulated and fickle grain market.

PROGRAMME NOTE

One suggestion of merit that has come out of the present session of Parliament is that made by Frank Folwell, of Hastings South, to the effect that the Speech from the Throne should be broadcast over a national hook-up each session and should, at the same time, be brought to acoustically-deafened members themselves by a public address system. Traditionalists would likely curl up at the edges with such an innovation but tradition, after all, should be an inspiration rather than a deterrent.

Besides the obvious benefit of making Canadians more parliament-conscious, as an advertising man would say, the scheme has the merit of letting the members themselves in on what vote-juggling lies ahead. The value of this cannot be overrated.

Better still was Mr. Folwell's thought that occasional debates in the House might be broadcast to the public at large by the public's own broadcasting corporation. This thought is rich with benefits.

Consider the voter who has voted for Mr. Blot, M.P. and helped to have him elected. He will be a void to hear what his member has to say on any question under discussion. After failing to appear before the mike on five programmes, Mr. Blot will be properly classified as a drone who merely pockets his indemnity and considers it the height of duty to hustle over to the House from the Chateau Laurier when the whip cracks.

Mr. Blot, M.P., will also have to watch his P's and Q's—his ain't's, too. No Hansard-typed editing here. No prestige build-up by a grammar-wise secretary who goes over the Hansard proofs to make Mr. Blot look like a parliamentarian of full stature. Mr. Blot will, by radio, appear to his constituents just about what he probably is, a chap who has his campaign speeches written for him by an organizer.

Mr. Blot, to the joy of every Press Gallery newspaperman, will have little or no chance the next day to scream he was misquoted, tape recorders being a popular and effective new device.

But over and above all these considerations is the happy fact that such broadcasts of debates—even if they were a daily affair—would be welcome substitution for some of the soap operas now carried by the CBC. Culture, after all, is what the CBC claims to purvey. Who wants to hear of "Helen's Heartache" when high-level, intellectual, and vitally interesting programs such as "Garson's Grievs," "The Coldwell Chorus," "Drew's Dilemma," "Babbling Brooke" and "The St. Laurent Symphony" are available?

Listeners might even stand in line to pay their radio licenses instead of having the $2.50 dragged from them by threats and court action.

OLD PLANTER, NEW CROP PROSPECTS

Joe Rutledge Says By Joseph Lister Rutledge

THE PETERS AND THE PAULS

If an expert cat-burglar some night climbs our back veranda, enters our home and leaves, sometime later, with appropriation of our worldly goods, we grow stormily indignant. We demand to know what the police intend to do about it.

But why should the police or the city fathers disturb themselves? Quia obviously we have more goods than the cat-burglar. If he had as much as we, it is to be assumed, he would be satisfied and leave our home alone. That at least would be the burglar's argument. But we argue in rebuttal that we worked and earned to provide these things, and the thief didn't. It seems to us an unanswerable argument. What is ours is ours. It is the basis on which our civilisation rests. So, to tell with the burglar, and good enough for him too.

But, sometimes, in our corporate capacity, we think differently. I is not a new idea to short-cut our way to comfort and modest affluence—by taking from the "haves" and giving to the "have-nots," or at least those who have not as much. This even while we cling to the remnants of our ethical beliefs that if the individual tries it is robbery and the fair and proper answer is to bury the misdeed, off to jail. We might continue so to think but for the fact that the "haves" have always in the minority, are drowned out by the applauding voices of the "have-nots."

Of course we "have-nots" don't move as individuals, for then we would be burglars. We move as government. Governments, supposedly being disinterested, can do what individuals would blush to do themselves. No one would think of calling a government a burglar even though, without our consent, it may take from us what, until that moment, had been our rightful property defensible at law—the very laws the government had provided for its protection.

Clank it at me, this is the philosophy of Robin Hood and his ill-fated Merry Men who robbed Peter to pay Paul, and so gained the approval of all the Pauls. When we come to this philosophy a dictated economy is inevitable. It skips lightly over matters of ability or extra diligence or added devotion and assumed responsibility and makes a broad pool of people who are all equal and so are equal recipients of the general bounty. The one flaw is that there is still no protection against whether of the breed of cat-burglars. If our private gains are subject to systematic theft, what is the incentive to acquire? Therefore we are all down to the burglar's level, because no one now has what is worth stealing.

I've Been Thinking

How Will the New Counties Affect Us?
H. G. Teskey

The very contentious Bill No. 50, known as The County Act, has passed the third reading in the Legislature and has been signed by the Lieutenant Governor. It will come into force on July first of this year. In spite of tremendous opposition to it in the Province, particularly from educational bodies, the Legislature gave its consent to the Act with only about six dissenting votes. Once again the government cracked the whip and the party members fell into line.

It is not my purpose in this article to discuss the possibilities or probabilities of the legislation. That I shall reserve to a later time. Here I shall merely summarize the provisions of the Act to satisfy the curiosity of many who have not yet had an opportunity of reading it.

Formation of Counties
Not more than four experimental counties shall be set up under the Act. These shall be selected in such a way as to give least inconvenience in their formation; that is, they shall be areas where the boundaries of municipalities, school divisions and hospital districts most nearly coincide. Also they shall be distributed geographically throughout the Province. However, it is provided that a county may be set up only "after receiving a request to do so from a municipality or from a school division which is wholly or partly within the said area."

The boundaries of the municipality, the school division, and the hospital district shall be made co-terminous. These units shall cease to exist as separate entities. One county council shall have jurisdiction over all rural municipal, school and hospital matters.

After the experimental counties have been in existence for four years a plebiscite shall be held in each to determine if the electors favour the continuation of the county unit. It may be assumed that if the experiment proves satisfactory, the counties will then be set up throughout the Province.

The Lieutenant Governor in Council (the Cabinet) may fix the number of councillors, but the number must not exceed eleven. When a county unit has been selected and its boundaries fixed,

THE WEEK AT OTTAWA

By the Canadian Press

Some idea of the cost of helping to fight a cold war, of maintaining national security and national welfare, was driven home to Canadians last week.

The man driving home the unpleasant facts was Finance Minister Abbott, and he did it right where it was likely to make the most impression—the pocketbook.

In direct contrast to his tax-slashing pre-election budget, Mr. Abbott last week brought down a 1950 budget that gave no major tax concessions. It was, in fact, a sort of musical-chairs budget that shuffled a few taxes around, dropping a total of $2,000,000 in some places and promptly picking the same amount up in others.

But the hardest-to-take point was a prediction that big budgets—with taxes running at about their current rate are here to stay.

In blunt warning-laden words he placed the situation before the country.

"Unless we are prepared to reduce the scope or scale of government activities we must now accept $2,400,000,000 budgets in future years," he said. "Nor can we escape the tax implications of this conclusion."

Economic Jargon
The main news for the man in the street lay in the facts that his income taxes won't get any heavier and that he might or might not get more ice cream and chocolate milk for his money.

The minister knocked a special five-per-cent tax off toilet soaps mainly because it's becoming so hard to distinguish them from other kinds; eliminated the eight-per-cent sales tax from ice cream and dairy drinks and prepared whipping cream; and allowed farmers and fishermen to use a new system of depreciation if they want to.

For the remainder, Canadians got little but a nod and an earful of economic jargon with a cheering boost of the vicious type that could come from reading Mr. Abbott's encouraging statements about the economy of the country.

Adding up the amounts the government expected to spend in many ways and to take in from a variety of sources, the finance minister gave the results: expected expenditure for the 1950-51 fiscal year were $2,400,000,000; the expected revenue $2,400,000,000 and the expected surplus from these operations $20,000,000.

Senate Reform Likely
Senate reform is under consideration. Proposals will not affect continuation of the Senate as the second chamber of Canada's parliament. In future appointments may be required to retire at a certain age, Senator Wishart Robertson stated in the Senate. The government leader said the same compulsory retirement age may be attached to future appointments to superior or supreme courts in the provinces.

When Senator Robertson did not state the retirement age it was learned later that it may be 75, the same age at which members of the Supreme Court of Canada retire.

WOOL PROSPECTS FOR 1950
Producers of wool enter the 1950 market with prices at a record level and wool production on the increase. Numbers of sheep on range and farms is so low now that it has become a national concern. Excellent prices for lamb and mutton across the line in U.S. has caused a big reduction in numbers of range sheep.

There is every indication that mutton and wool prices will remain high regardless of what may develop in countries of heavy wool production. There still is little danger of an oversupply to the point that will make sheep unprofitable in Canada as compared with returns on other classes of livestock and on the sound basis of investment and costs for labour, feed and shelter.

THREE SIMPLE RULES

Improve your grain crops by following three simple rules. How clean seed, test for germination, and treat with a mercury dust. These precautions are known to every farmer, but they are not being put into practice is evident from results of a seed drill survey conducted in the spring of 1949.

Last spring a seed drill survey was carried out in Alberta and out of 1,819 samples taken, 992 were found to be in the rejected grade. Most of them were unfit for seed because of the number of weed seeds they contained, in other words germination was so low that production of a satisfactory crop was impossible. Seed with germination as low as 5% was being put into the ground in some cases.

In the M.D. Wainwright, 55% of samples taken were placed in the rejected grade, 10% in No. 1 seed and 35% in No. 2 or 3 seed. No. 1 and 2 seed should be the lowest standard to go through seed drills on any farm.

SEED GOOD SEED REAP GOOD CROPS

As spring approaches, farmers all over the country are preparing for seeding. This means the preparation of millions of bushels of cereal grains for seed. The yield and quality of the crop harvested this fall will be greatly influenced by the character of the seed used.

Good seed has certain definite characteristics. It must be of suitable variety and pure as to variety and kind. It must also be free of weed seeds and of disease, and it must be of good germination.

In choosing a suitable variety, the recommendations published by each province should be consulted and followed. These variety recommendations are based on the results of tests made throughout each province every year. Only varieties of good quality and of high yielding ability, and which possess the most satisfactory resistance to disease and insect pests are recommended. Purity means freedom from grains of other varieties and from other kinds of grain. Better yielding varieties will outyield poor yielding types by several bushels per acre. The inclusion with the seed of some poorer yielding types will naturally lower the yield. Grades may be lowered from mixture of late and early maturing types by producing both over-ripe and immature or greenish kernels; in addition considerable losses may result from the shattering of the over-ripe kernels. Uniform ripening is especially important today when the combine is used almost exclusively to harvest cereal crops.

Freedom from weed seeds needs little comment. Weeds bring extra cost and labour and are the chief means by which hard-to-control perennial weeds get established on a farm. Germination is important because a good crop is largely dependent upon healthy plants. Such factors as frost, immaturity, heating, weathering, and disease, tend to weaken or destroy the germination of grain seeds. Where wireworms or root rats are troublesome, it is important that the grain germinates and grows quickly and vigorously. Diseased seed tends to weaken germination, by killing the seedlings or weakening them so that they fall to grow into normal plants. Planting diseased seed practically ensures the perpetuation of the disease; this is especially true of the smuts.

To get a start with good seed, it is necessary to buy only a few bushels of Registered or Certified seed and increase it on good clean summer-fallow. If care is taken when seeding and harvesting to prevent mixtures, these few bushels may be increased into a source of reliable seed for the entire farm.

WORLD OF WHEAT

INTERIM PAYMENTS TO FARMERS

The Government seems to be under fire because it permitted the Wheat Board to borrow five million dollars to complete the last payment of 20 cents a bushel. Personally I do not see anything wrong about this, for at least our farmers got the money which they badly needed, and the Board can quite easily repay this to the banks out of the wheat they will soon sell.

There is, however, something more that the Board certainly should do. There are tens of thousands of farmers who suffer from poor crops last year and who now badly need money to buy seed and feed. The Wheat Board actual by has in hand quite considerable sums from its coarse grains operations, for it has sold coarse grains at much higher prices than the initial price paid to farmers. There would seem to be no reason whatever, then, why the Government cannot authorize the Board to make an interim payment from the surplus cash they now hold, and which eventually they will distribute to producers. Why should not the accumulated cash be paid out? It is the farmers' own money, and would be far better in their pockets now than resting idly at Ottawa for months to come.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS
Grain supplies in the four principal exporting countries, on January 1st, 1950, were placed at the high level of 161 million short tons. Barley and oats were somewhat below average while wheat supplies were well above average.

Canadian grain stocks estimated at 15.3 million short tons were among the smallest of recent years and were 18 percent below the average of the past five years. Stocks of all Canadian grains, except rye, were below last year's January stocks.

Australia's wheat production with harvesting now completed is expected by some sources to be 266 million bushels, some 16 million bushels more than last year's crop.

FARM NOTES FROM ABROAD

Argentina Farming
The Argentine government is planning to increase agricultural production by one-third this year, promising producers remunerative prices and to be provided from the accumulated export price may drop, they will receive the fixed price they have been receiving. In addition a special fund is to be provided for the purchase of machinery and equipment will also be purchased from this fund.

U.K. Feed Grains
Substantially smaller quantities of feed grains were imported by the United Kingdom in 1949. Total imports were 1.3 million in 1949. The bulk of the imports consisted of corn—largely from Argentina. Smaller quantities came from the United States, the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia. Prospects for Argentina for this year of not encouraging and the chief sources of supplies will be U.S.A. and possibly U.S.S.R.

Healthy Cows
Denmark has practically eliminated tuberculosis and its dairy herds are almost completely free of the disease. Swedish herds are 97 per cent free. In the United Kingdom plans have been developed to eliminate bovine tuberculosis completely, but have been temporarily postponed to reduce public expenditure.

By-Law Number 50-6 then received by unanimous consent its three readings on motions of Councillors Mitchell Wallace and Buckle and was declared finally passed in open council.
On motion Council was regularly adjourned.

LIBRARY NOTES

New books placed on the Library shelves should give much pleasant reading.
"The Tower and The Town" Grace Campbell
The inter-dependence of a minister and his congregation is the theme of the fourth novel by this Canadian writer.
"Until The Day Break" Solie Lee Bell
The unforgettable love story of Judah and Mara set against the intrigues of Herod and Herodias.
"Medical Mission" Mildred Walker
A story of several lives set against the background of a medical conference.
"The Dream Game" Marcus Bach
The story at the end of the colony road, closed but not locked, stands like a sentinel between little Mike and the world. This is not only a splendid description of life in a Russian colony but a tender story of the love of a father for his son.
"The Way West" A. B. Guthrie
A Book-of-the-Month club selection and an excellent story is this of the On-to-Oregon trek.
"The Laird and The Lady" Joan Grant
A story of a haunted house and how a ghost began and ended at Castle Cloud.
"The Rise of Henry Morcan" Phyllis Bentley
Henry Morcan's life from 1890 to 1946 parallels the experiences of England, told against the background of the Yorkshire Wolden Mills.
"The Storm and The Silence" David Walker
A very different book—the tragedy of Tam Diamond, product of the slums of Glasgow.
"The Preholder" Joe David Brown
The story of Horatio Trench born in an English school, apprenticed to a bully ropemaker coming to America and indentured to General Jackson and finally becoming an owner in his own name.
"The Wonderful Story of London" The beautifully illustrated book tells the history of London from the riverbank, settlement of Roman days to the present time.
"A Time To Keep" Peter Neagoe
Day to day life in a small village in Transylvania as seen through the eyes of a small boy.
"Inland Passage" George Core
Good fast moving mystery of what happened to Know Randall when he answered an innocent appearing ad.
"What A Body" Alan Green
A different type of mystery with excellent characterization and a cynical type of humor.
"The Four Graces" D. E. Stevenson
As English as a cup of tea and equally refreshing.
"The Knight's Cavalier" Samuel R. Ellinger
A cloak and dagger story of the plotting against Francis I in which the hero is the loyal member of the family. As exciting as his two previous books "Prince of Foxes" and "Captain from Castille".
"Swift Water" Paul Annixter
A story of northern Maine and the Calaway family who are supported by father and son in a growingly rare occupation—trapping.

WORTH THINKING ABOUT

Sweet clover seed, along with other forage crop seeds, is selling at a phenomenally high price this year. This clover is a much surer seed producer than the other clovers or alfalfa. Consequently many growers harvested a crop in 1949 and realized a very high return per acre from it. The result is that many of them are forking the other clovers and alfalfa and turning to this seemingly sure fire legume seed crop.

J. E. Birdall, Supervisor of Crop Improvement, suggests that in areas where the other legumes rarely produce satisfactorily this may be all to the good. But he adds that in areas where alfalfa, alsate and alfalfa are even moderately consistent seed producers, such a move is unfortunate to say the least. Before undertaking to grow sweet clover as a seed crop, farmers in those districts should weigh the matter carefully. They should not forget the very low price per pound usually paid for sweet clover seed and should also keep in mind that sweet clover is considered a weed in seed crops of other legumes.

A Farm Storage Tank PAYS 4 WAYS

1 Helps you get work done without delay

How many times have you had to delay field work, because fuel deliveries were held up by bad roads? You don't... when you have a farm storage tank.

2 Helps you prevent waste of fuel

How much fuel have you spilled when filling tractor tanks... or left in the bottoms of barrels? You don't... when you have a farm storage tank.

3 Helps you keep fuel clean

How often have you lost time due to dust, grit or water in tractor fuel? You don't... when you have a farm storage tank.

4 Helps you reduce danger of fire

How often have you worried about the danger of fire, due to tractor fuel soaked in barns or sheds? You needn't... when you have a farm storage tank located well away from buildings.

The three ministers concerned—Municipal Affairs, Education and Health—shall proceed to divide and apportion the assets and liabilities of any school division, municipality or municipal hospital district that is partly included in a county.

The Minister of Municipal Affairs shall conduct the first election and fix a date for the first meeting of the Council.

All assets and liabilities of the municipality, school division, or hospital district wholly included in a county shall be vested in the county council.

Powers and Duties of the County Council

The county council shall elect a chairman and appoint a secretary, treasurer and other officials. The chairman shall have the rights and duties of the reeve of a municipality, the chairman of a school division and the chairman of the board of a hospital district.

Appointment of Committees

The county council shall set up three committees from among its own members—a municipal committee, a school committee, and a hospital committee. Each committee shall consist of three members, but each may be enlarged by co-opting the services of three electors who are willing to act as members of the committee.

All school districts (such as town and village) within a county shall lose their identity and become a part of the county. However, town and village municipalities shall remain intact and continue to function as before.

It is provided that the boards of school trustees in such town and village school districts may have representation on the school committee of the county. However, if the number of such town and village exceeds three, representation shall be rotated from year to year.

Towns and villages may be represented on the hospital committee in a similar way. Thus school and hospital committees may each consist of:

- three members of the county council
- not more than three members representing towns and villages.
- at least one and not more than three co-opted members. (The total in each committee shall not exceed seven).

Powers and Duties of Committees

The three committees shall have the same powers as are now exercised by municipal councils, school boards and hospital boards respectively, except:

- to borrow money
- to pass a by-law
- to do such other things as may be reserved from time to time to the county council by by-law or designated by the Lieut. Gov. in Council.

Each committee shall submit its individual estimates to the county council in each year. The council may reduce or increase the estimate or return them to the committee for revision. Once a budget has been adopted the money allocated to each committee shall be administered and expended under the jurisdiction of that committee. When the budget has been adopted the council shall send requisitions to the town and village councils as is done by school divisions.

It may be presumed that the duties will begin to function at the beginning of 1951 after elections have been completed.

NEW INSECTICIDE IMPERILS HUMANS

SCIENTIST WARNS

VICTORIA, B.C.—A potent mass-killing chemical being used in the war against insects is so dangerous that handlers must wear anti-gas equipment similar to that worn by servicemen during the war.

Perfected by the Germans during the war, it is known as Parathion, an organic phosphoric acid. It was tested and used for the first time in Canada by Okanagan fruit-growers last year. Prof. G. J. Spencer, biologist, University of British Columbia, disclosed that Parathion was one of the military secrets Germany turned over to United States authorities at the end of the war. It was stated they did not use the chemical weapon against the Allies because they were aware that Britain had developed a lethal gas just as effective.

The new insecticide is described by biologists as one of the most effective toxic poisons ever used against insects threatening the world's food supply. Gas masks, rubber coats, gloves and protective clothing for the feet and legs must be worn by growers when using it on their crops. Decontamination precautions must be taken after growers have used it.

Must Take Precautions

Parathion is a very powerful insecticide. It is so powerful that precautionary measures may prove fatal to users. Already three men have died agonizing deaths in the United States due to negligence in handling the chemical. Several others have narrowly escaped death.

While not condemning the use of Parathion, Prof. Spencer said, "Extreme caution should be taken in using toxic poisons of this type. He felt the indiscriminate use of dangerous chemicals on plants might create some very serious problems in the future."

"We are sitting on a keg of gun powder until we know more about these chemicals and their long-range effects on plants," said the biologist.

He said that he had received reports that Parathion was destroying bird life.

"The public is not aware of the dangers of chemicals which are being brought into use against insects," he added. "Parathion is one. Others will follow. No one knows what long-term effects they will have on plants and indirectly on man who eats the plants."

Sports Camera

It's a nice feeling when you're right but rather embarrassing when you're wrong—this business of predicting the positions in which certain teams will finish.

Along with thousands of other hockey fans, this reporter at the start of the National Hockey League season gazed into his crystal ball—and came out with a lesson. To be brutally frank he picked only one position correctly—that of the last-place Chicago Black Hawks.

However, those feelings can be tempered somewhat by the fact that of the other five clubs, four ended up only one position out.

Last autumn Toronto's rugged young Maple Leafs appeared on paper as the team to end the season in top spot. They had, the previous spring, vaulted to their third straight Stanley Cup title and appeared to be just as powerful again. But look where they finished—in third place, even after a surge at the end of the season.

The powerful Detroit Red Wings, picked as runners-up, grabbed first position early in the campaign and stayed there until the final whistle. Much of their success must go to their trio of sharpshooters—Ted Lindsay, Sid Abel and the recently injured Gord Howe—who finished out the scoring race as the top three.

Montreal appeared destined for third place, but took second instead. However, this did not come about until the third-last game of the season when they broke a second-place tie with the Leafs to shove Toronto down one rung.

Howe, who finished out the season as the star player (Hockey) Richard, who led the loop in goals scored, and goaltender Bill Durnan, who captured the Vezina Trophy.

New York's smooth-playing Rangers supplied a pleasant surprise. After most annual doormats, the Blueshirts, expected, finished second last season, climbed into the fourth and last playoff position, displacing Boston Bruins, who finished fifth.

Wait! There's one compensation. We can all try again next fall.

No Comeback Attempt

The man who for 11 years stalked through the boxing world with a pair of deadly fists, has said he will hang up his gloves for good and won't attempt a comeback. And he'd rather have it that way.

Joe Louis, the guy who dominated heavyweight boxing for 11 years, announced recently that he was finished with boxing after a South American tour. He will then join a circus tour of Canada, demonstrating ring tactics for $1,000 a day.

But before that announcement, controversy arose and continued for about a year as to whether he would challenge Bernard Charles, his successor to the world heavyweight title, and thus become the only man in ring history to give up his crown and then win it back. The Brown Bomber retired undefeated March 1, 1945.

It would have been quite a feat at that if Louis had come back and regained his title. But the big guy was bound to be beaten sooner or later—by Charles then by some other fighter stepping along the boxing trail.

Most fans would prefer to remember Louis as he was in his prime, one of the deadliest and most powerful fighters of all time and the only man to hold such a sure and long reign.

NORTH IS CHANGED BUT STILL HOLDS THREE OLD TIMERS

Buffalo Narrows, Sask.—Life in Saskatchewan's northland isn't what it used to be but the rugged, frozen terrain still suits some men.

Three old-timers, with a total of 168 years' northern trapping and fishing among them, say things have changed for the worse—but none of them want to change it for "distraction."

The northland—home of the fisherman, trapper, hunter and trader—still has its allure, says Cuthbert (Chubby) Taylor of Buffalo Narrows.

"It's the free and easy life," he said. "I get a man, this magnificent north does, and I don't want to leave it."

Chubby, more than 70 years old, has been around this village about 160 miles' northwest of Prince Albert for 25 years. Until six years ago he trapped and fished. He now is night watchman in winter and a fish-buyer in season.

But Tom Pedersen, a northerner of 39 years' standing, claims the north isn't what it used to be. When he first came north in 1911 to fish on the Le Cross there was lots of fish and fur.

Formerly a fisherman could count on 300 to 400 fish in one catch of his net. Now the haul is 10 to 15.

"The way it's handled now, with commercial fishing both winter and summer and the use of small-mesh nets, it is just a matter of time before there will be no fish," he says.

Indiana Fish Now

Fishing once was considered a white man's game, but when fur became scarce and prices dropped, the natives turned to fishing.

Although fish now are less abundant, ant, Tom says the main trouble is that the population has increased to the point where there are only 200 fish to a man, one-fifth of the former figure. Tom turned to mink ranching in 1940. His ranch is a paying proposition and "it's not so cold as fishing."

"Another old northerner who has seen many changes in his 70 years of existence—almost 50 in Saskatchewan—is Dick Kirby. He says he was at Big River when there was no Big River, at Saskatoon when there was no Saskatoon, and at Prince Albert when it was just a lumberjack town.

For the last 24 years he has operated a stopping-off place where the Beaver River runs into the Le Cross. He used to cater to drivers of horse-drawn "swags." After that it was caterpillar tractor swags and snow trucks and now snow-mobiles take have of transportation.

The north is changing rapidly. It is no longer the free-and-easy land of plenty, these oldtimers claim. Life may still be a lot freer than "outside" but it is getting harder every year.

She had been introduced to a radio newscaster. In parting, he advised her to be sure to listen to his radio program at breakfast. "I said," he wanted to know what's behind the headlines. "I know what's behind the headlines at breakfast time," she said. "My husband."

The man who is proud of his wife should occasionally tell her so.

The Week at Ottawa

At present members of the Senate and provincial superior courts are appointed for life under the provisions of the Canadian constitution. The reform proposals may be made at the next sitting of the Dominion-provincial conference on the constitution. A date for the sitting has not yet been set.

Wins Major Test

Bury Donald Gordon, the war-time press-board chief and former deputy governor of the Bank of Canada, passed with flying colors his first major test as a railroad president. Just three months after taking over direction of the Canadian National Railway, biggest railway system on the continent, he displayed a grasp of C.N.R. affairs before the House of Commons railway committee that astonished his listeners and won their confidence.

To the committee, worried about the continual red ink written into the ledgers of the sub-sidized system, he outlined a definite scheme for refinancing the debt structure in order that the C.N.R. might operate in a more normal manner. The plan calls for elimination of much of the interest on government-held debts that the government-owned line must pay each year. He also outlined proposals for taking better care of his employees and of using oil in place of steam although he said he was not completely sold on the idea of eliminating steam locomotives entirely.

He told the committee that he expects to boost C.N.R. revenues about $15,000,000 above the $150,000,000 earned in 1948. And he forecast a budgetary deficit for 1950 of about $12,000,000—some $10,000,000 less than last year.

But to his listeners, his employees and the country he gave a blunt warning that should all demands for wage increases now facing the company be met, it would result in an unprecedented budgetary deficit of $90,000,000 for the system.

The demands now being negotiated with some 59 labor organizations in Canada and the United States, he said, would boost the company's wage bill by some $12,000,000.

A United States courier plane that crashed in flames outside the Canadian capital last week plunged Ottawa into deep, sincere mourning for the man generally recognized as one of the ablest and most popular ambassadors the U.S. has sent here in years.

The capital was stunned as it learned that Gen. Lawrence Johnston, 44, died in a plane crash almost within seeing-distance of the city.

The sense of loss was felt far beyond the capital, where, to an unusual degree, he had taken an active part in important negotiations and a trouble-shooter in all sorts of diplomatic tangents.

A New York lawyer who turned to diplomacy for a career, Mr. Johnston had probably travelled about Canada more than any of his predecessors. And everywhere he went his open personality and co-operative ability had won new personal friends and had strengthened the close ties binding this country and the one he represented.

Two days after the crash, Canada bade a last, solemn farewell to the ambassador.

While a 19-gun salute echoed across the city, the body of the 47-year-old diplomat was borne slowly through long lines of crack Canadian troops to Ottawa's Union Station and placed aboard a special train for New York.

In the Legislature

By Mr. Wm. Masson

The County Act took much of the time of the Session during the past week. Probably three or four provisions of the Act should be mentioned for clarification purposes:

1. This Bill provides: That only four counties should be set up in the Province and that on an experimental basis.
2. It provides that after four years the people in the district must be given an opportunity to vote as to whether they should continue with the county or revert to the present system.
3. The county is to be set up only after application has been made by either the School Board or the Municipal Council, or both.
4. Every Committee to be set up under the County Act must be less than the majority of the Council, and therefore no Committee could rule the Council.

Some School Boards and Municipal Councils have expressed their willingness to have counties set up. As yet, however, no locations have been determined.

The five million dollar fund has been set up from which money will be loaned to municipalities at the low rate of 2% to assist them in financing self-liquidating municipal projects.

An increase in the supplementary Old Age Pension approved will bring the pension up to a maximum of fifty dollars a month.

The House was given information this week that the gasoline tax in effect in other provinces, with one exception, is from one to five cents a gallon higher than in Alberta. Several provinces also have a sales tax that applies to the purchase price of cars. This week Nova Scotia added a 4% sales tax on all goods.

A change in the Edmonton City Charter focuses its attention on the Dewler project often referred to as Edmonton's "Miracle Mile". The sponsors have agreed to spend 28 million dollars in providing the City with auditorium, business and parking facilities. This Amendment has yet to be considered by the Committee of the Whole House.

Pioneers in Chemical Weed Control

During the past few years, the control of destructive weeds has become a practical reality—providing the farmer with a new and effective weapon which increases his yield at a cost low enough to make his additional investment highly profitable.

The National Grain Company takes pride in being the first company to introduce Selective Chemical Weed Control to Western Canada. In 1945, National Grain brought into Canada a spray rig for the purpose of carrying out experiments in Chemical Weed Control. The first demonstration in Western Canada was made in 1944 at St. Agathe, Manitoba, with the cooperation of the Manitoba Department of Agriculture and The University of Manitoba.

So quickly did the farmers of Western Canada take advantage of the new technique that, in 1949, it is estimated that 8 1/2 million acres of farmlands were sprayed with 2,4-D. It is a tribute to the effectiveness of the chemical that farmers adopted its use so widely and so quickly.

In 1947, a series of experiments in low volume application was conducted by National Grain in the Sacramento Valley, California, proving that control of weeds using volume as low as 1 1/2 gallons per acre was possible. This method was quickly introduced to western Canadian farmers, with definite techniques eliminating a considerable amount of the guesswork.

National Grain has continued to experiment both with techniques and with refinements to spray machines, quickly incorporating improvements in both the National Fargo Sprayer (model 1946) and the National "Westerner" (Tractor Mount). Both these machines are the result of endless experimenting under actual field conditions. Both are equipped with the Fargo nozzle, which was designed to meet and overcome clogging conditions.

In keeping with the National Grain's policy of first finding the information and quickly passing it along to grain producers, they publish a yearly "Handbook on Chemical Weed Control" which is available to all farmers on request, as well as presenting a series of colored motion pictures which have been designed to make farmers fully acquainted with the latest techniques and the most accurate information on Chemical Weed Control.

Ten was introduced to Canada commercially by the Hudson's Bay Co.

CANCER IS THE MOST CURABLE OF ALL MAJOR CAUSES OF DEATH... IF DETECTED EARLY!

WATCH FOR CANCER'S DANGER SIGNALS YOURSELF

(THE 6th in a SERIES DEALING WITH CANCER)

The rule that saves countless cancer victims and that could save countless more is "DETECT IT EARLY". Consult your physician without delay if you become aware of any one of the following symptoms.

1. A persistent lump or thickening, especially in the breast, lips, tongue, neck, armpit or groin.
2. Any irregular bleeding or discharge from any natural body opening.
3. Progressive changes in color or size of a mole, wart or birthmark.
4. Any sore that does not heal, particularly about the tongue, mouth or lips.
5. White patches inside the mouth or persistent white spots on the tongue.
6. Persistent hoarseness, unexplained cough, or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Persistent and unexplained indigestion.
8. Any change in normal bowel habits.

NOTE: Your body does not always warn you of the presence of cancer. A yearly physical examination is a must for your protection.

EARLY RECOGNITION and treatment SAVES LIVES

Remember?

When you ask for a loan at the B of M...

you do not ask a FAVOUR*

WHEN the housewife calls at the grocery store and orders a supply of provisions, she is not asking a favour... she is buying goods for which she will pay on delivery... purely a matter of business.

So with your bank. It is a business proposition just as much as the grocery store.

The grocer deals in groceries... the banker deals in credit. And as the making of loans is one of the principal ways by which his bank derives its revenue, he is as anxious to sell his credit as the grocer is to sell his groceries. And like the grocer, the banker naturally wants to know that he is going to be paid for his goods... that his loans will be met when they fall due. That, too, is only good business.

When you have occasion to ask for a loan, look at it this way. Come to the Bank, not feeling that you have to ask a favour, but to offer the manager a sound business proposition which will be of profit both to you and to his institution.

It was a fair statement then... it is a fair statement now... and we believe it bears repeating. Hundreds of thousands of Canadians in all walks of life have since proved for themselves, by the experience of borrowing at the Bank of Montreal, the full meaning of this message... that if your proposition is sound, there's money for you at the B of M.

Yes, when you ask for a loan at the B of M, you do not ask a favour.

Memory Verse: "The Lord is Risen Indeed"

Christ Encourage His Friends

Have you ever been sad and lonely, and then a friend, or mother, or father has come along and almost before you knew what had happened you were not sad or lonely any longer? Or, perhaps you have been working at your lessons; you have found them very difficult and it seemed as if you would never be able to do them correctly, then the teacher has come to help you and all the difficulties disappeared.

Something like this happened to two of Jesus' friends on that first Easter Day long ago. They were oh! so sad, and there were so many things they did not understand. Since the Friday before, and indeed for a whole week before, there had been such strange and sad happenings that these friends of Jesus were completely bewildered and discouraged.

On that first Easter Day in the evening these two disciples of Jesus left the busy city of Jerusalem and made their way along the road toward their own home. The two men, one whose name was Cleopas, and his friend had been with Jesus in Jerusalem. They had heard that St. Peter and St. John had gone to the tomb and had found it empty. They knew, too, that the women and Mary Magdalene had said that they had seen the Risen Jesus, but they could not believe that this good news was true. They did not share in the new joy which had come to the other disciples.

They stopped walking for a moment to talk about the good news the women had brought. One of them asked, "How can it be?" Just then a Stranger caught up to them and walked along with them. The two could not see the face of the new companion very well, but they felt that He was a friend. "You seem to be troubled. Tell me what makes you so sad," the Stranger said to them. Cleopas and his friend were surprised that this Person should not know what had happened. So they asked him, "Are you a stranger here that you do not know what a dreadful thing has happened?" "What thing?" He enquired. Then they told him all about their friend, and Master. "We loved Him," they said, "we trusted Him and we hoped that He would be loved by all people and that all would call Him Master. Out on Calvary on Friday He was crucified. It is any wonder we are sad; our greatest friend is gone. And now we are bewildered."

The disciples felt much better for telling the sad story to their new companion. But He said to them: "You are so sad of heart and very foolish. You have not understood your Bible very well. All this would be clear if you had been thoughtful about what you learned there." Then He began to explain all the Old Testament to them.

"I'm sure these two men never forgot what Jesus told them. Their hearts burned within them and they wanted Him to go on and on and never stop. Their sadness left them. Instead of being depressed and discouraged their new friend had filled them with encouragement. They understood now how what the women had told about the angels and the Risen Master might be true."

When they reached their village, their companion was about to leave them, but they begged Him to come with them to their house, for they could not bear to part from Him.

"Abide with us; for it is toward evening and the day is far spent," they said to Him. Their companion accepted their invitation and they went together into their house.

At yet the disciples did not know who their Guest was, they realized only that whereas they had been most unhappy and worried, now that He was with them, a strange new peace had come into their hearts. Then, their eyes became fixed on their Guest as He "took bread, and blessed it, and broke, and gave them, saying, 'How familiar this was to them! How often they had seen Jesus give thanks in this way! It was Jesus Himself with them!'"

Report to the People

The Speech from the Throne was finally concluded on Thursday, March 16th after four weeks of continuous debate in which Members of all Parties took part. Before the speech was adopted an amendment, moved by the Progressive Conservatives and substantiated by the Social Credit and Social Crediters, was defeated by overwhelming majorities. The Progressive Conservatives and Liberals joined together to defeat an amendment moved by Mr. Low, Leader of the Social Credit Group, which would have the effect of doing away with the contributory clause in Old Age Pension legislation in the Progressive Conservative amendment and also charged the government with failure to adopt measures adequate to establish in our country a balanced economy wherein Canadian consumers are constantly supplied with effective purchasing power sufficient to enable them to buy Canada's total production if they so desire.

During the debate on the Address one piece of legislation was passed which made available to a wider group of workers benefits under the Unemployment Insurance Act and also took in persons receiving salaries up to $4,000 per year for the purpose of making contributions and receiving benefits where possible.

At the time of writing this article bills have been given first reading which will extend for one more year the Agricultural Products Act and another bill will have the effect of making the Agricultural Prices Support Act permanent legislation. It will be recalled that at the session held last fall, the Minister of Agriculture had a resolution on the Order Paper which provided for doing away with the Agricultural Prices Support Act after the end of May 1950, but for some reason or another this resolution was not acted upon. The Minister has attended many meetings throughout Canada since the last session prorogued last December and we were pleasantly surprised to find this session a resolution placed on the Order Paper by the Minister, proceeding with legislation to make the Act permanent. Your representative has opened the debate for Social Creditors on this legislation and pointed out the urgent necessity for continuing the Agricultural Prices Support Act. The Minister of Agriculture on many occasions during the war made statements in the House and throughout the country that farmers were accepting lower prices because of government policy than they could actually receive if these prices were not in effect and that it was the government's intention to see to it when the war was over that prices of agricultural products would be maintained to compensate for losses suffered by the farmers and the government is now doing nothing more than making good its promise to our agriculturalists. I pointed out that we were not satisfied to have the Agricultural Prices Support Act on the statute books unless floor prices were guaranteed on a parity basis and many people seem to lose sight of the fact that while the prices of many of our agricultural products are going down and our markets drastically restricted, the prices of the things the farmer has to buy still continue to rise. If parity prices were guaranteed, this matter would be adjusted at a satisfactory level.

In the daily press of February 1st, it was reported from a Liberal convention being held in Calgary that interim payments on wheat would likely be made to dried out areas in the country and on Tuesday last I sent notice to the Minister of Trade and Commerce, asking about interim payments on oats and barley. The following day the Minister made a statement, which in part reads as follows:

"It would seem that at this time, a statement on the whole position of payments from the grain pools should be made and I shall make the statement now. Last week I stated in reply to a question on the orders of the day that it had been decided not to make a further interim payment on the five-year wheat pool, but that a final payment would be made as promptly as possible after the end of the crop year. An additional payment now would have to be distributed over some 1,400 million bushels of wheat, involving some 1,350,000 separate cheques. The cost of making such a payment is estimated at roughly $400,000. Opposition members have charged the government with having made too large interim payments in previous years and, rightly considered, it seems desirable to make one further payment when the final out-turn of the five-year pool is known. It has also been decided to make only one further payment, that is a final payment on the oats and barley pools. This payment will be made after the end of the crop year as soon as sales have been completed and all the oats and barley delivered to the pools.

"At this time, however, I believe that I should give some indication of what may be expected by way of a final payment from these pools. Any such forecast is dependent, of course, upon a number of factors, principally the course of market prices until the balance of the 1949 crop deliveries can be sold. There are still oats and barley on farms remaining to be delivered to the pools and the sooner producers can get the grain they intend to sell delivered into country elevators, the greater the possibility of the boards taking advantage of the existing market in making sales, and the sooner the transactions may be closed out at the end of the crop year in order to permit a final payment. Depending upon all these circumstances and without in any sense making a commitment that payments will be made on these levels, I think it desirable that producers should know that, based on present prospects, I now estimate financial (Continued on page 12)

ion endeavours to help in spreading the Christian faith and the Christian spirit by the showing of special films at the holy season of the year. That the films in general are not of too high a standard as far as production is concerned is not the fault of the Legion;
they go to considerable trouble and expense to obtain the best that they can;
surely it is high time that the Church branch to think more of this method of spreading the faith and endeavoured to see that high class films of the best production possible were made available for general release. Our thanks to the Legion, at this time, for the "Passion Play" shown on Good Friday.

kernel will start soon in the colony of Mozambique if the necessary permission is forthcoming.

Announcement of the formation of a company to conduct this industry was published here recently.

Large overseas commercial concerns dealing in the by-products derived from the shells and the fruit itself are said to have shown great interest in the proposed venture.

The estimated yearly harvest of cas-hew nuts in the colony is between 70-900 and 80,000 tons—which is at present exported almost exclusively to India for husking.

A new scientific process for separation of nuts from shells will be used which not only does the work very rapidly, but ensures that the shells and nuts maintain their high value for the extraction of the most valuable oils and varnishes.

Canasta To Win.

The game is simple . . . all you do is get eleven, thirteen or fifteen cards, according to the number of players, prayer that you have an intelligent partner three jokers, two deuces and stupid opponents.

Comfortable chairs are a necessity,
as sometimes an innocent, three-game Canasta party will turn into an all-night affair.

Betting is permissible but not advisable (please verify by any old time Canasta player).

When making melds it is doubtful whether or not to add wild cards to any set of three, as partner may have more of the same kind. In any event, whether he has or not, he'll be sore no matter which way you play it.

Canasta, like mules, encourages sweating, but self control is advisable, as it is a definite advantage over opponents.

System of Signals

Many systems have been devised but the following are simple and effective:

To notify partner of contents of your hand after the deal the raising of left eyebrow denotes one joker, raising right eyebrow denotes two jokers, raising left arm (no higher than shoulder level; this is important) denotes three jokers. The number of deuces held in the hand is denoted by bending fingers of left hand, each bent finger denoting one deuce.

Therefore, if you have two jokers and three deuces, raise right eyebrow and left hand to shoulder height and fold three fingers.

Any signaling that you indulge in must of necessity be done in such a manner that opponents are not conscious of your actions. In fact, unconscious opponents make for a much more enjoyable game.

Husband and wife combinations can make for a winning team although it is advisable to give the wife a drink of water (containing alum) before the game starts. Speech will be difficult but the system of signaling can still be used.

Always use your own cards. A few corners snipped or a small dot here and there will help identify cards very rapidly and avoid guess work.

If your luck is poor it is a proven fact that to walk around your chair three times will improve your playing as it usually gives you a splendid opportunity to get a good view of both opponents' hands while you are making your move.

To save any embarrassment, loss of sleep, money, friends or even the love of your wife . . . forget Canasta . . .

Before the war the Hull fleet supplied South America, Portugal, Spain, mats at sea. Hostilities interrupted the trade.

The trawler Howard has left for the Latin countries.

Before long several other vessels

LOCAL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Byers of 1630 W
61 Ave., Vancouver, B.C. are celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary today, (Wednesday, April 12th), and we wish them many more years of happy married life.

Mrs. Coates was a visitor in Holden last week-end.

Mrs. Strong and her daughter left for Vancouver last week after visiting in Chauvin.

Mrs. Chapman was a visitor in Chauvin recently enroute from Artland to Vancouver.

The members of the Chauvin Golf Club motored to Vermilion on March 29th to take in the Little Royal Show.
We all enjoyed it very much and wish to thank the drivers of the cars for making the trip possible.

Mrs. Saker and Karen Lovie left last Thursday for Edmonton where they'll spend the Easter holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nowstead and Gloria returned home from Vancouver and points west where they've been holidaying for the past three weeks.

Rachel Peuch accompanied by a friend arrived home Thursday for the holidays from Edmonton.

Vivian Harris and Nick Ponomorskos who are going to school in Canada are spending their Easter holidays at home.

Mrs. Dewar, Jack and Billie are city visitors this week.

Tuck Reid and family were weekend visitors to Lloydminster, while away Don Reinhardt did chores.

al payments at ten cents per bushel on oats, forty cents per bushel on the matting grades.

"Once again I should like to emphasize the need for early deliveries from farms, and I would urge producers who have wheat, oats or barley still to be delivered to get this grain into the elevators at the earliest opportunity.
There is a good demand for early shipment of all these grains. Some sales will be lost if the grain is held back and some have been lost through lack of grain in position. Moreover, as I have already mentioned, early delivery of these grains will facilitate the closing out of the pools and expedite the final payments in that connection."

Mr. Howe, stated that consideration is now being given to initial prices for 1950 crops and that prices for those grains will be announced well before seeding commences.
